OCLS ANNOUNCES STRATEGY TO MOVE LIBRARY MANAGEMENT

SERVICES TO WEB SCALE

OCLC is connecting the content, technology and expert capabilities of its member libraries worldwide to create the first Web-scale, cooperative library management service. Member libraries can take the first step to realizing this cooperative service model with a new, "quick start" version of the OCLC WorldCat Local service.

"Visits to libraries, focus groups and over a decade of engagement in the library automation world have convinced me that libraries require less complexity in their management systems," said Andrew Pace, OCLC Executive Director for Networked Library Services. "To truly deliver network-level services--a platform-as-a-service solution--and not simply Internet-hosted solutions of current library services, new system architectures and workflows must be built that are engineered to support Web-scale transaction rates and Web-scale collaboration. OCLC is in a unique position to create cooperative network effects in library management services on a par with OCLC Cataloging and OCLC Resource Sharing."
