

Join the new Lewis and Clark Digital Consortium

Offer downloadable audiobooks, eBooks, music and video for your patrons.

In partnership with the OverDrive, participating Lewis and Clark Library System Public Libraries will be creating a new shared collection to provide the leading download service of OverDrive audiobooks, eBooks, music, and video.

All Lewis and Clark public libraries are invited into this shared collection and download system from OverDrive, the leading service provider with a 3rd generation platform and 8,500 public libraries worldwide.

A shared digital collection is an affordable way for your library to offer a great selection of popular, frontlist audiobook titles and other formats. Your patrons can browse the Digital Collection website, check out selected titles with a valid library card, and download to their PC or Mac. Titles can be transferred to portable devices, and many can be burned to CD!

Your collection can also include our newest format, OverDrive MP3 Audiobooks, which are compatible with iPod® and virtually all MP3 players including cell phones.

The Digital Consortium is designed for smaller libraries that benefit the most from resource sharing and joint collection efforts. Three tiers are offered based on population served, with the annual participation fee ranging from $3,000 to $9,000. Libraries that sign up by 6/05/09 will receive $500 in free content credit! The annual fee will be allocated 1/3 towards the system (e.g., hosting, maintenance, updates) and 2/3 towards the collection, providing excellent value and the opportunity to grow.

Participation in the Consortium also includes the ability to select from OverDrive's industry-leading inventory of digital titles, reporting and collection development tools, as well as staff training and expert promotional assistance.

Join today! The consortium is now open for enrollment.
